Working Strong Through Covid-19 Times

The Community Development Department has been open for business to do all building permits and development plans approval during the Covid-19 crisis time. We continue to see strong numbers in building permits and development plans. Some new procedures were put in place temporarily in response to health concerns for interacting with our customers.

Our staff have also developed creative ways to engage the citizenry through the use of WebEx for meetings, and Virtual Public Involvement techniques such as interactive mapping and virtual public meetings. These innovations have allowed meetings and processes to continue, and will provide an alternate means of participation in meetings, studies, and open houses in the future.

CDBG Funds Allocated

The CDBG Division recently allocated $522,535 in FY20 entitlement funds compared to $509,455 in FY19. Local non-profits will use the funds to carry out several projects including replacing windows at WAVI’s domestic violence shelter and installing a fence around Rural America Initiatives’ grounds. Additional CARES Act funding will also soon be available for Covid-19 issues.
Coming Down the Pike

Code Enforcement

Our team is out there helping to keep Rapid City orderly and beautiful. The officers have had fewer abatements during the end of winter and beginning of spring time frame. The community has been great keeping up with shoveling sidewalks and generally removing snow. There has also been a much better response to violation notifications sent out. The majority of these notifications are being answered and corrective action is being taken by the property owners.

Our response to traditional nuisance code enforcement is being somewhat placed on hold at this point. We are and will be focusing our efforts on ensuring the businesses of Rapid City are complying with the re-opening restrictions set forth by the City Council. We are answering complaints, inspecting businesses, and making proactive visits to ensure compliance. Questions or concerns? Call 605-355-3465.

New Residential Developments

Coffee with Planners

Stay tuned for a special version, “Meet Us In The Park”, of our popular planning get-together this summer, date TBA. We’ll have fun with planning while observing social distancing!
The Rapid City Historic Preservation Commission (HPC) is currently conducting strategic planning, and updating its Historic Context Document and Comprehensive Preservation Plan to inform the Commission’s work in 2020’s and beyond. The planning documents are available on the HPC’s website at www.picturercpast.com/about.html. A virtual public meeting to present the project and obtain public input is being planned for May. Public comments may be directed at any time to sarah.hanzel@rcgov.org or submitted anonymously at http://freesuggestionbox.com/pub/xpzijjkx.

Phase I of the project included community meeting and a strategic planning retreat that created a revised mission document for the HPC and drafts of the Historic Context Document (Draft) and Comprehensive Preservation Plan (Draft). The original Historic Context Document was written in 1989. The most recent Comprehensive Preservation Plan was written in 2009. To date, Phase II has produced a Draft Themes Document that interprets the development of Rapid City along the lines of “Environment,” “Government” “Economy” and “Building Community.” This document will shape the development of a master list of representative types of places throughout Rapid City that reflect key attributes about the history of our community.

Phase II sets the stage for Phase III to occur in 2020-2021, where VPHS will conduct a Cultural Landscapes Survey and integrate all of the phases components into the City’s updated and finalized Historic Context Document and Comprehensive Preservation Plan. This activity has been financed with Federal funds from the National Park Service, Department of the Interior through the South Dakota State Historic Preservation Office.

Population Estimate

The estimated population in Rapid City, as of 12/31/19, is 77,185. This is an increase of .85% over the population estimate of 76,532 at the end of 2018. Rapid City grew by approximately 10,000 people over the last decade.

The estimate is based on a methodology approved by the US Census Bureau, and includes data based on building permits, housing demolitions, and annexations that have occurred since the 2010 Census.
Construction Projects Underway

With the virus and economic concerns, the Community Development Department has been pleased to see steady activity among developers and residents with building projects. Here are some relevant points to consider:

- Staff has been busy with calls and appointments with developers and residents
- There’s been steady stream of submittals for proposed new developments
- Permit and application numbers are down only slightly from last year this time
- Compared to last year, the total number of building inspections is up by 8%.

The Ascent Innovation Center is under construction on Main Street and East Blvd. The new business incubator will have 48,595 sq. ft. on two floor. Steel continues to be placed, with structure stability being a major effort. Completion is anticipated in fall 2020.
