West Main-Nemo Road project reasserted stalled

Beannatorium of the council for the compensation of the West Main-Nemo Road project is unlikely to be made soon from a long list of suggestions put forward by developers and citizens. The compensation is needed to resolve a dispute over the compensation of property owners whose property will be taken for the development. The council has been discussing the issue for months and has not yet come to a decision.

Council asks for assurance of road construction

As a result of the delay in the compensation issue, the council has asked for assurance from the developers that they will complete the road construction by the end of the year. The developers have agreed to do so, but the council is still concerned about the possibility of further delays.
